Luau for King Lear to be presented March 22-23

Mound City High School students will have their turn on stage for the first time in several years on Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23. The students, under the direction of Ms. Keri Seitz, Mound City's middle school Language Arts teacher, will present "Luau for King Lear" by Pat Cook.

Because of the past success of elementary and middle school plays, interest was high for the high school students. Ms. Seitz held tryouts and assigned parts before Christmas, and began practices on January 16.

In "Luau for King Lear", according to the late Archibald Donnelly's will, the Peaceful Glen Memorial Players can keep the building he gave them, as long as they perform "quality productions". They are about to mount a new production, because this time, they might lose their building. Board President Tamara makes Blair the director when she learns that Blair had once minored in drama in college. Blair chooses the Shakespearean classic, "King Lear", unaware that the play will have a setting in the tropics to coincide with the town's celebration theme. What Blair faces in the next few weeks are giggling teenagers, a cranky lady who lives in the basement apartment, a leading man with a slight "problem", food fights, and teaching Hawaiian to her cast. All sorts of oddball community theater types come out of the woodwork in this riotous farce where the audience not only gets to see the performance, but also gets to see what goes on behind the scenes.

Seventeen high school students will participate in the production that premieres Friday at 7:00 p.m. The Saturday performance will also be at 7:00 p.m. Ticket prices are children $4 and adults $8. Letters to the editor

Dear Holt County Friends,

I so enjoyed seeing many of you last March when I visited Holt County. My purpose then was to gather memories about my parents. It was a joy to share stories with so many of you.

I have written a book: Unpacking Memories: The Story of a Suitcase, a Country Doctor, & a Community. While this book tells of my parents, Iris and Dr. Frank Sweaney, it also is the story of Holt County during the decade following World War II. I tried to capture those years in northwest Missouri. I hope it brings back memories to you.

Proceeds from its sale will provide the original funding for the Iris and Frank Sweaney Fund. This fund is earmarked for scholarships for youths from Holt County who are attending college and will be administered by the Community Foundation of Northwest Missouri, Inc. I plan on returning to Missouri in March to set up the fund.

I will be in Missouri for special events regarding the book in May and will be signing copies at the South Holt Alumni Banquet, the Forest City Museum, and the Holt County Historical Society.

It has been a wonderful journey for me to re-connect with Holt County and my memories.

Thank you for your support.

Deborah Sweaney Carlisle, PA

Dear Editor,

Many of you may remember that last year, I asked everyone to wear orange one day during Multiple Sclerosis (MS) Week. Well, I'm going to ask the same of you this year. On Friday, March 15, 2013, I would like to see as many people as possible wear orange that day to help spread awareness about MS.

There are 2.5 million people world-wide affected by this disease, me being one of them. There are also (well those I'm aware of) 4 people in Holt County living with this. I'm not asking you to give money, I'm simply asking you to help spread awareness about the disease.

Challenge your friends and family with who can wear the most orange and let's help spread the word.

I have been informed of some exciting events taking place around Oregon, MO, that day from school activities at South Holt to news reports to things for the adults later on.

I encourage you to take pictures of those sporting orange and would love to see them. You can email me at mkf@ofm live.net or find me on Facebook under Mary Kay French.

There is one thing that some of as one of the string of signal fires us have forgotten and some are trying to eliminate, which will change this country from what it is supposed to be and what it was for awhile, to something else under the pretext of a better life for all. I'm thinking about the Revolutionary War Era, what is was about, and the reason it happened.

Our forefathers had enough courage to pit themselves against the English rule, with all its taxation and control over everything. Not everyone wanted a nation of their own, for some were content to be what they were supposed to be...regular British subjects. There became enough people here in the "new world" that had escaped that kind of control of their lives, along with those that had escaped from religious prosecution, that a feeling of rebellion grew into a movement toward a government by the people, a goal that was set for all.

Back in my school days, we learned a lot about that era from the poems, stories and even songs and sayings that were part of our history lessons. We had lessons about Old Paul Revere and his famous ride, the Old North Church, the Boston Tea Party, use of small groups of local militia made up of friends and neighbors, the use of Indian fighting tactics, hit and run, the use of natural settings for defense and offense, as well as a reuglar armed force.

One fall, I was in a school in New Jersey, with a group that had camped on a hill that was used to alert the colonial forces as to where the English were or would be. It was kind of like the lights of the old North Church for Paul Revere. There was still some of the tar like substance that was used in the signal fire, embedded in the ground, as well as the effect of how they (colonists) had put up earthen protection. I think now that those installations have outlasted the memories of why they were there.

It's easy to see why some people are trying to eliminate the 2nd Amendment, as well as others, too. Militia will no longer be able to exist by disarming the citizens. That way, there won't be enough guns to have a repeat of the Revolutionary War by protecting ourselves from our government like back then. The ones who worked up our U.S. Constitution and other documents, did so in order to prohibit a ruler again like the British, where there were high taxes, suppression of growth, religion and where there was 100% control. One thing in the 1770's, was that there was still room to move further west into undeveloped areas. We don't have any left today. How did the makers of our Constitution know it would be needed so badly years later? The U.S. did fairly well for awhile.

According to some of the following quotes from some presidents, there must have been some problems that they saw.

Teddy Roosevelt summed up the U.S. like this: 1.) We can have no 50-50 allegiance in this country, either a person is an American and nothing else, or they are not an American. 2.) We have no room for but one flag, the stars and stripes. 3.) No room for but one loyalty, just the USA 4.) No room for but one language, the English language 5.) To make this once again a United States of America, we are obligated to once again be a one nation under God.

Calvin Coolidge said, "The nation which forgets its defenders, will itself be forgotten."

Ronald Reagan stated, "Freedom is never more than one generation away from extinction. We didn't pass it to our children in the bloodstream. It must be fought for, protected, and handed on for them to do the same, or one day we will spend our sunset years telling our children and our children's children what it was once like in the United States where men were free."

We have had a share of great leaders in America, that have tried to keep our country like it was supposed to be after the Revolutionary War. There is a nationwide organization that has a unit here in Mound City called "DAR", Daughters of the American Revolution. All I know about it is that one requirement is members have to be a descendant from someone who was active in the revolution, maybe they can continue to keep some of the memories alive.

But hey, I'm still betting that some day, we'll be back to square

Preparing for the loss of a loved one:

"Peace of mind is just a visit or phone call away."

That's why pre-arranging is recommended. When you pre-arrange you eliminate financial worries and the stressful distraction of making over a 100 decisions at a time when you are grieving. Pettijohn & Crawford offers a wide range of options for you, so you can create a service within your budget that is right for your family. The loss of a loved one is one of the most difficult times in our lives. Funeral planning and costs need not make a difficult time worse.

the Market Opportunities for Regional Entrepreneurs (MORE) project, an initiative organized by students and faculty from Northwest Missouri State University's departments of Agricultural Sciences and Business and Northwest Missouri Enter- March 12, at Nico'Z prise Facilitation (NWMEF), both in Maryville, MO.

MORE is designed to help agriculturally-related businesses and other small businesses find new ways to add value to existing meat products. The goal of the project is to develop new markets that could increase the profitability of businesses while retaining or creating jobs in the meat industry. The project seeks input from individuals involved in the consumption of meat including producers, processors, retailers, restaurants and consumers.

MORE hosted focus groups earlier this year in northwest Missouri to identify gaps that may be curbing producers' ability to deliver their products to consumers. A follow-up focus group at each location will include dissemination of the information from the initial focus groups and sharing potential solutions.

Northwest expects beneficiaries of the project to include small and startup producers who want to market or expand their current offerings for niche opportunities for farm-raised beef, meat processors, consumers such as regional restaurateurs, meat markets, grocery stores and individuals, and Northwest faculty and students and agents of Northwest Missouri Enterprise Facilitation who will establish and nurture connections with community constituents.

This Week's History

From the Mound City News archives

50 Years Ago - 1963

- Three area men were in a miraculous escape when their car hit a bridge railing one mile east of Craig. Gary Eugene Diggs, 21, of Bigelow crashed into the southeast corner of the bridge, very near the United Tractor location. He was accompanied by William Byron Fitzgerald, age 27, and Virgil Lee Miles, age 21, both of the Mound City area. The impact of the crash drove one of the round bridge railings through the car. They were all taken to the Fairfax Hospital. Fitzgerald amd Miles were transferred to the Sister's Hospital in St. Joseph.
- For the past eight months, Holt County prisoners were confined in the Andrew County Jail in Savannah. This move was necessitated after Circuit Judge Ray Weightman ordered that the Holt County Jail was inadequate for safe confinement of prisoners.
- Mrs. Bill Burnsides was hostess to the Craig Merry Minglers Extension Club. Mrs. Ralph Ideker presided at the meeting. Refreshments were served to Mesdames Jim Burnsides, Orville Rebel, John Salfrank, Earl Voltmer, Floyd Quimby, Kenneth Felumb, Everett Wright, and Bill Burnsides.
- Friends and classmates of Stanley Seitz were pleasantly surprised when they were entertained with hamburgers and Cokes at the D-X Cafe in honor of Stanley's 13th birthday.

25 Years Ago - 1988

- Heidi McIntire, eighth grade daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason McIntire, received a I rating in piano at the Junior High District Music Contest at NWMSU in Maryville.
- Joyce Slayden was honored for thirty years of service at ASCS-USDA. A surprise celebration supper for the event was attended by the Holt County USDA personnel and spouses.
- The first place winners in District 31 high school basketball were the Lady Nodaway-Holt Trojans and the South Holt Knights. Each team fell in the first games of regional play at Tarkio.
- The Holt County R-II elementary classes held their version of the Winter Olympics after studying the Olympics and the major countries which participated in them the prior two weeks.
- An improvement at the Squaw Creek Truck Plaza was completed. The project involved the addition of an outer room which would act as an insulator, helping with the heating and cooling. This will also provide an extra waiting room, out of the weather, when the restaurant is rushed.

10 Years Ago - 2003

- Fairfax farmer, Gary Wennihan, and Ben Rogers, a Northwest Missouri State University student from Craig, were filmed at the Maryville campus for an NBC "Today Show". Wennihan found an unusual rock in a soybean field and carried it around in his pickup for about two years before Rogers took it to his geology professor. Meteorite experts tested samples and identified it as a one-of-a-kind stony iron meteorite that could be worth as much as $1 million. The story was on CNN earlier in the week.
- For the first time ever, a Lions Club District meeting was held in Mound City. Duane Nauman was the District Governor.
- Kent Bohart, Mound City, who was with the 180th Airlift Squadron in the 139th Airlift Wing of the Air National Guard in St. Joseph, was called up for a year's active duty as part of the country's preparation for a possible war with Iraq.
- Austin Parman and Amanda Hollingsworth were crowned king and queen at Nodaway-Holt's Courtwarming.

HOOKAHS HARMFUL TO YOUR HEALTH

Tobacco related threats to the health of our society are increasing with the resurgence of a very old form of smoking tobacco, which has been around since ancient Persia. Hookahs - sometimes called water pipes - are used to smoke tobacco that is available in a variety of flavors. Some individuals mistakenly assume that these are safer, since the smoke passes through the water, but that is not true. Use of a hookah for smoking tobacco poses a serious potential health hazard to the smokers and to others that may be exposed to the secondhand smoke.

Unfortunately, one of the groups that has seen the largest increase in the use of the hookah is the youth and many of them have been led to believe that it is less harmful than smoking cigarettes. Hookah smoking is almost always practiced in groups. In the past, cafes have been common sites for Hookah smoking and in the United States the number of these sites has increased. However, this activity has also made its way to the college campus and many other social settings.

Hookahs may come in different forms, but all of them have some things in common.

There is typically charcoal for heating the tobacco, a long metal body, and a hose with a mouthpiece that is shared by all of those that are taking part in the smoking session as the hose is passed from person to person.

Many people, especially young people, believe that the hookah is less harmful than cigarette smoking, but many of the health risks are the same, which include the following:

- Participants can inhale up to 100-200 times the amount of smoke normally inhaled with a single cigarette.

- Nicotine, which is very addictive, is delivered and is at least as toxic as cigarette smoke. - There are toxins delivered by both, but because smoking in hookah sessions may go on for a long time they can absorb more of these toxins than with regular cigarette smoking. - Along with smoke from the tobacco, the charcoal, which is used to heat the tobacco, also produces high levels of carbon monoxide and smoke, both of which make secondhand smoke from the hookah very dangerous for the nonsmoker. Hookah smokers are at risk for the same kinds of health related effects as are caused by cigarette smoking, including many forms of cancer, such as cancer of the lung and oral cancers, COPD, heart disease, and decreased fertility. Mouth to mouth sharing of the hookah can result in the spread of infectious diseases. Babies born to women who smoked one or more water pipes a day during pregnancy have lower birth weights than babies born to nonsmokers and are at an increased risk for respiratory diseases.

For more information go to www.cdc.gov. Please consider joining us at our next tobacco coalition meeting. Time and date will be announced later. Call the health department for details.

Lady Panthers close out season with a strong performance at sectionals

After sealing a sectional Lady Panthers came out hot berth by defeating the Nodaway-Holt Lady Trojans 65-35 in District 16 basketball, the Mound City Lady Panthers headed to Northwest Missouri State University in Maryville, MO, on Wednesday, February 27, to compete in sectional basketball action against a highly touted Mercer Lady Cardinal team. A calm, collected, determined 23-4 Mound City team took the floor at Bearcat arena, and proved a feisty competitor for the 26-1 Mercer Lady Cardinal team, which boasts senior forward Sierra Michaelis.

Lady Panther Alex Phillips secured the tip-off over Michaelis and started the Lady Panthers on a fast-paced, action-packed first quarter of play. The Lady Panthers utilized great jumping, and capitalized on the boards in the first quarter of play. The Red Cross releases new, free Tornado App to bring safety information to mobile devices

Awareness Week is here, the American Red Cross is releasing its official Tornado App, putting lifesaving information right in the hands of people who live in, visit or have loved ones in tornado-prone areas.

This free app is available in English or Spanish and gives iPhone, iPad and Android smart phone and tablet users instant access to local and real-time information, so they know what to do before, during and after a tornado. The app includes a high-pitched siren and "tornado warning" alert that signals when a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) tornado warning has been issued in their area, even if users have the app closed. An "all clear" alert lets users know when a tornado warning has expired or has been cancelled.

"The fast alerts in the Tornado App can save lives," said Karla Long, Emergency Service Director of the Midland Empire American Red Cross. "Now, when a tornado warning is issued in the middle of the night, the siren alert can wake people and they can go to their tornado safe area. Users of the app can even receive alerts when they Mound City students in preschool, kindergarten and 1st grade participated in a fun day of Dr. Seuss activities on Friday, March 1. All the activities centered around American writer, poet, and cartoonist, Theodor Seuss Geisel's books by Dr. Seuss. Students and teachers alike, donned Dr. Seuss hats, t-shirts, wigs, whiskers and other Seuss-lore for the celebration.

Each of the three classes rotated through the three classrooms, where different Dr. Seuss books were used for a particular theme. In the preschool room, Mrs. Lisa Caton read 'Daisy-Head Mayzie', and a delicious snack with oreo cookies, pudding and daisies was made by the students.

In the kindergarten room, Mrs. Sarah Osburn read, 'Horton Hatches the Egg'. For the activity, students travelled in small groups to stations selecting items to be used to protect an egg during an egg drop. The students then took the 'protected' eggs to the top of the bleachers and Dr. Seuss Day celebrated

Snows add needed moisture to soil

The snow has added valuable moisture to the area soil profiles. Snow depths increased in a pattern with heaviest from southwest to northeast across the northwest corner of Missouri.

The amount of moisture available in a snow event varies. According to the National Snow and Ice Data Center, the majority of snows in the United States contains from 0.04 to 0.10 ratio of water per inch of snow. Often, the amount of moisture in a snow varies greatly with the temperature in the snow as to how much moisture is contained in the snow.

A general rule of thumb is that one inch of water is contained in ten inches of snow, but again, this is often inaccurate. To accurately identify the amount of water contained, take a core sample of the snow with the same diameter as a rain gauge. Melt the core in the rain gauge and determine how much water was contained after melting.

Soils under the snow are not frozen, so this will allow water to slowly infiltrate, allowing it to move into the soil profile.
